'Great giant is waking,' St. John says of Africa

"An explosion is some day going to take place in South Africa that will make the Mau Mau uprising look like a Methodist picnic," Robert St. John said at a hushed forum assembly Monday.

MR. ST. JOHN, who has spent the major portion of his life reporting the wars, revolutions, and reconstructions of nations, said, "All I can do is to try to hook you with truth; to make you do some original thingling."

"Africa," he said, "is a great giant just waking after years of slumber. He has more power than even he realizes."

Mr. St. John criticized the American newspapers for overblowing the atrocities committed by natives of Africa while not mentioning the inhuman acts of whites on the continent. He said there have been cases of native men violating white women—or 40 in the Belgian Congo at the time he was there. "But," he said, "in Capetown (South Africa) there are at least 100,000 and Cape-colored children, reared by white men."

IN EMPHASIZING the history of U.S. foreign policy failure in Africa Mr. St. John told of a province in West Africa that desired to disassociate itself from France. "Leaders of the province wrote repeatedly to Washington asking for U.S. aid in establishing its government," he said, "but didn't even receive an answer." This forced the struggling nation to turn to other countries for help. "Now," said Mr. St. John, "there are nine ambassadors in that country, representing Communist countries."

He went on to tell how the "black" countries began ambitious improvement projects. At the same time the U.S. sent five airmen and two C-47's, and began to teach 130 illiterate black men how to jump from those two planes with parachutes.

MR. ST. JOHN also told of a book project in that province. He stated that Communist countries sent books in the African language. But the U.S. "sent 600 books—in the English language—and of plays by Soyayan" (William Soyayan, American author whose principal work is a drama about a San Francisco drunk).

Canons of Journalism state journalist's duties

In observance of National Newspaper Week, Oct. 15-21, this newspaper feels it is proper to remind our readers that behind every page and subconsciously underlying each editorial is a code of ethics to which we subscribe.

These Canons of Journalism were drawn up and adopted by The American Society of Newspaper Editors in their annual conventions of 1924 and 1925. The 1926 convention of Sigma Delta Chi officially adopted the Canons also in behalf of the Journalistic Society.

These Canons state that "the primary function of newspapers is to communicate to the human race what its members do, feel and think. Journalism, therefore demands of its practitioners the widest range of intelligence, knowledge, and of experience, as well as natural and trained powers of observation and reasoning. To its opportunities as a chronicle are indissolubly linked its obligations as teacher and interpreter."

The Canons define the practices and the aspirations of American journalism, as involving:

- "The right of a newspaper to attract and hold readers is restricted by nothing but consideration of public welfare . . .
- "Freedom of the press is to be guarded as a vital right of mankind . . .
- "Freedom from all obligations except that of fidelity to the public interest is vital . . .
- "Good faith with the reader is the foundation of all journalism worthy of the name . . .
- "Sound practice makes clear distinction between news reports and expressions of opinion . . ."

It is with these Canons in mind that this newspaper exercises its daily function. If we waver, the course is not by intention.

Honor Code vs. bike thievery

It is disappointing that on a campus of a Church school, where in each classroom of each building a poster declares, "The Honor Code is in Effect in This Classroom," that bicycle stealing is so commonplace.

Students coming to this university unacquainted with the fact that not all students here live the gospel of honesty may well be bitterly disappointed when their bicycle (or for that matter, any property) turns up missing.

Students who thus lose property might well ask what is being done to punish offenders of property rights. But how much more appropriate on this campus, and in agreement with the principles of the Gospel, would be the question, "Is there some system of trust that would more effectively encourage honesty?"

had a one-man conference about your future lately?

You:

Why the gold bars?

Future You:

You're needed... just as your father and grandfather were. It's an obligation that a lot of qualified college men have to meet. If we don't...

You:

All right. But what can I do for the Air Force?

Future You:

The Air Force needs college-trained men and women as officers. This is caused by the rapidly advancing technology that goes with hypersonic air and space flight. Your four years of college have equipped you to handle complex jobs.

You:

Say I was interested... how can I get to be an officer?

Future You:

You know about Air Force ROTC and the Air Force Academy. Then there's the navigator training program. You've probably heard about Officer Training School... where the Air Force takes certain college graduates, both men and women, and commissions them after three months of training.

You:

Starting salary is important. What about that?

Future You:

Add it up. Base pay, tax-free allowances, free medical and dental care, retirement provision, per diem flight pay. You don't have to be an eco major to see it adds up to an attractive package.

You:

I've been thinking about getting my Master's.

Future You:

As an officer you can apply for the Air Force Institute of Technology. At no cost, and while on active duty some officers may even win their Ph.D. degrees.

You:

Tell me more.

That's the job of your local Air Force Recruiter! Or write to Officer Career Information, Dept. SC110, Box 7608, Washington 4, D.C. If you want further information about the navigator, training or Officer Training School programs.

Hart hands over Timp hike reins

Dr. Charles J. Hart has been reelected as chairman of the Timpanogos Hike after 34 years of service, it was announced by President Ernest L. Wilkinson.

Dr. Hart, who is chairman of the Department of Physical Education for Men, will be succeeded by Dr. Orest C. Heston professor of recreation.

In his announcement President Wilkinson paid high tribute to Dr. Hart for his "outstanding example of long and unselfish public service for the benefit of his community and to bring the love of nature to many thousands."

IN HIS 34 YEARS chairmanship, Dr. Hart has missed the big community hike only four times in 1931, 1941 and 1944 when he was at summer schools, and in 1960 when he was on a government educational mission to Pakistan.

He became chairman of the hike in 1923, succeeding the late Eugene L. Roberts, BYU professor of physical education, who originated the mass trek up the 12,000-foot peak in 1912.

EVERY YEAR BYU sponsors the Timpanogos hike with the assistance of the Provo Chamber of Commerce, Forest Service, and civic clubs. Thousands of nature lovers from all over the world gather on a Friday night in July for the bonfire ceremony and program at Aspen Grove at the foot of the peak.

The next morning the massed hikers assault the mountain. Usually about 300 of them reach Emerald Lake on a plateau at an elevation of about 10,000 feet. Only half of these continue up beyond the timberline to the summit. Here they receive summit badges as a reward for their efforts. The summit badges were originated by Dr. Hart, in 1930.

THE CLIMBERS are of all ages, from babes in arms to rugged old-liners over 80. Last summer, for example, a summit badge was awarded to Milton H. Ross, 82, of Salt Lake City. Dr. Hart doesn't know the exact number, but he estimates that about 60,000 persons have made the 12-mile climb, and he has all of the names of file.

Last summer was celebrated as the 50th Timpanogos Hike. Dr. Hart recalls that up until 1910, the American Legion shot off rockets at the bonfire ceremony, one for each year of the hike. "But after nearly 30 years of hikes, the people got tired of counting rockets, so we discontinued the shooting," Dr. Hart recalls.

"EVERYONE SHOULD stand on top of a tall mountain in every year," the veteran director says. "From there you can see God's handwork, expand your vision, and regain your perspective."

For those who reach the top, the descent includes a breathtaking slide (arms and legs flying) several hundred yards down the Timpanogos glacier, he said. This is a large bed of ice and snow extending from Emerald Lake up the great ravine to the ridge saddle. Some of the more rugged slides return to the top of the glacier for repeat rides.

THE FIRST HIKE which of- ficially launched the series was made by a handful of students, faculty members and townspeople, led by Mr. Roberts. They reached North Fork of Provo Canyon by buggies and hay racks and proceeded on foot to Aspen Grove, where the first ex- tensive bonfire program was held. They had to blaze their own trail up the mountain the next day.

Peace Corps member criticizes Nigerian life, causes student uproar

LAGOS, NIGERIA (UPI) — Margery Michelmore, the "Peace Corps" member who criticized living conditions in Nigeria, will be permitted to stay here until the uproar stirred by her comments quiets down, the U. S. Embassy said Tuesday.

Miss Michelmore, 23, of Foxboro, Mass., wrote a postcard to a friend in the United States describing the "squalor and absolutely primitive living conditions" in Nigeria.

SHE SAID she was shocked to find that Nigerians live in the streets, cook in the streets, and even go to the bathroom in the streets. But after the first shock, she wrote, she found her assignment a very rewarding experience.

The postcard was intercepted and given to students at the University College in Ibadan. The students demanded that she be sent home along with the other 36 Peace Corps volunteers.

Margery said she was sorry.

Qualified Y student to be in Who's Who Studentbody Senators of BYU met Monday for a regular Senate session.

The newly elected freshman senators were unable to participate in the ASBYU Senate session because they had not been sworn in. Before they are sworn in, they must pass a test on the Senate constitution, said Dave Hoopes, Senate president.

The freshman senators are Clark Christensen, Ron Doxey, Jim Fox and Linda Markham. Jerry Callister is freshman class president.

A junior from Evanston, Wyo., Connie Gerrard, and Sharon Johnson, a graduate student from Colton, Calif., have been appointed to the ASBYU Senate to fill vacancies left in their respective classes.

Bonnie Howard, a freshman from Altadena, Calif., was appointed Senate parliamentarian. Sophomore class senator, David Howard, introduced a bill calling for a committee to see that BYU students who qualify are represented in Who's Who in American Colleges and Universities.

The decision was made by a Senate committee find out more about this publication and the necessary qualifications for representation in it.

Senator Howard introduced a bill which provided for establishment of a Senate bill veto.

The library would be all Senate laws, and studentbody would have to it.

A special Senate meeting called by Senate president Hoopes, for Monday p.m. in 288 Knight Hall, called the meeting in response to a petition from several senators.

Chuckles in the news

SOUTHAMPTON, ENGLAND, Oct. 13 (UPI)—The luxury liner Queen Elizabeth departed for New York yesterday without nine of its headwaiters.

The headwaiters walked off the ship in a huff when they were ordered to move from first-class to tourist dining rooms.

"We would rather sweep roads than be sent to work in the tourist section," one of them declared.

Y Theater to use stage 'grid'

Theatre patrons in the new BYU Theatre season will find something completely new and different in the production of "Time Remembered," the play to be presented Wednesday through Saturday in the Joseph Smith Auditorium, at 8:15 p.m. Four "imaginative and different settings" have been designed by Charles Henson of the BYU dramatic arts faculty.

THESE NEW stage designs allow almost instantaneous changes on stage without closing the curtain. The Smith stage has never had a "grid," a device designed especially for rapid changes and which is used in most theatres over the country. This has inconvenienced most audiences while sets were in the process of being changed. In this play there will be five fast changes with only one intermission.

ANOTHER innovation will be a night club scene which will feature all "live" music played by a "Gypsy" orchestra. The musicians are Larry Shumway, violinist and guitarist; Melvin Stott, violinist; and Alti So'o-vocalist. Another Samoan besides So'o in the cast is Tommy Stokes, who plays Lord Hector.

Robert Struthers, who is the technical director, recently returned from doctoral study at the University of Michigan. He has charge of properties, ranging from a French tap covered with ivy to orchids which are herons.

STUDENTS and faculty are reminded that they may obtain free tickets with activity cards at the ticket office in the Smith Bldg.

All other tickets are $1.50 per person. Tickets should be obtained early as the demand for them is great. Dr. Preston R. Gledhill, play director, said.
